Full Service Cruises!

We speak from personal experience when we say: 'Our Cruise Leaders Peter and Kouka Lefroy provided a full service cruise experience!'

Although punctuated with showers the cruise to False Creek in Vancouver was lots of fun. So much fun, that some land-based Squadron members joined us by car for the dinner at Bridges. 'Tetifon' provided a much appreciated water 'taxi' service from the anchored vessels to/from Granville Island.

The False Creek anchorage is always busy and lessons about the required amount of scope are forgotten but the holding is good and the scenery terrific. The dinner cruise vessels and party boats make their tour of False Creek in the evening but the City does sleep at night; at 3 am the lights of the tall Yale Town condos are mostly out and the traffic noise is gone.

We filled the boat's water tanks under the Granville Bridge on the way out and found this to be a high volume bird 'discharge' area - fill up quickly, with caution and then leave FAST!

The cruise to Winter Cove with the visit to the Saturna Island Winery was very enjoyable; 11 Squadron vessels participated. Sunny weather and 'taxi' service to the winery dock provided by 'Tetifon' and 'Happy Hours' made getting there easy for the anchored vessels. The dock has a limited water depth at low tide.

The winery provided an informative tour; wine was sampled and enjoyed; and we appreciated lunch overlooking Plumper Sound. What a beautiful day!

Thank you: Peter and Kouka!

Recipe Corner

Crab-encrusted Halibut

meat from 1 Dungeness crab (I just used the body meat and save the large leg pieces for my steak the next day)

1 c. Panko breadcrumbs

1 c. freshly grated parmesan cheese

1 tbsp. minced fresh tarragon

1/3 c. melted butter

4 pieces of Halibut (no skin)

Method

In a medium bowl combine the breadcrumbs, parmesan cheese, crab and tarragon. Drizzle in the melted butter a little at a time, stirring well to evenly coat the breadcrumbs. Rinse the halibut and dry well with paper towels. Grease a cookie sheet or I use parchment paper. Put the halibut on the parchment and spread the crab mixture evenly over the halibut. Bake on the middle rack for approx. 10 minutes at 40 degrees. Serve immediately. Decorate with 4 fresh sprigs of tarragon on the halibut and lemon wedges on the side to impress your friends. A glass of sauvignon blanc goes well with this recipe. Rose Easthom
